Hi Anthony:

We have requested that the webinar be recorded and they have indicated that it will be.

I am hoping you might still be able to call into the webinar itself since it is important for the researchers to get input. I plan on sending out the webinar information as soon as I get it (likely today or Monday).

Thanks

kk

Hello Kimball:

Regrettably, I will be attending a conference in Annapolis called Keeping History Above Water next week, and will be flying home at the time of the Sugar Pine Bridge meeting. I'm hoping that Brian Turner from my office will be able to participate via webinar for at least part of the meeting, but he lacks my familiarity with the project and this planning process, I will look into the possibility that I can view the webinar while flying home, but failing that, could you tell me if it will be recorded so that I can watch it after the fact?

Best, Anthony Veerkamp

Hi Mark

This meeting is for everyone who has indicated an interest in this project which includes both the MRP environmental and NHPA PA consulting parties. The previous note from Marci DuPraw was to all interested parties. My email is only to the 106 parties to ensure that you are aware of the meeting and the opportunity to provide input. People were bcc-ed to protect their personal information only. This meeting invite was to the same group of stakeholders as in the initial webinar and the subsequent webinar this past spring. No decisions about the future of the bridge are being made in the proposed meeting which will include initial discussions regarding what types of actions might be taken in and along the river (for example, riverbank restoration, engineered log structures, etc.) to lessen the hydrological impacts of Sugar Pine Bridge, and how we might ultimately gauge the success of these actions. Again, no actions about the bridge itself are being proposed at this time.

Thanks

kk

Hi Kimball,

I was bcc'd on an email from Marci DuPraw on September 19 about this meeting. It was described in the email as a public meeting on the hydrology study. I followed up to ask if this was a meeting for stakeholders or just for public information. Based on your email, this is not a public meeting, but rather one for the MRP PA stakeholders. Is this correct?

I have been trying to find out so that I can properly advise the SHPO about the meeting and whether her involvement is recommended or required.

Thanks for your help,

Mark

Please mark your calendars. The next stakeholder meeting associated with the Sugar Pine Bridge has been scheduled for Wednesday, November 1, from 1:00-4:30pm Pacific Time to provide an update on the Merced River hydrology study. The meeting will include an update of research activities performed since the last stakeholder meeting held May 17, 2017. It will also include initial discussions regarding what types of actions might be taken in and along the river (for example, riverbank restoration, engineered log structures, etc.) to lessen the hydrological impacts of Sugar Pine Bridge, and how we might ultimately gauge the success of these actions. We hope to solicit your input during these discussions.

The meeting will take place at the Center for Collaborative Policy, located at 815 S Street in Sacramento. Metered parking is available along the streets. You may also call into the meeting and that call-in information will be provided closer to the meeting date. A calendar invitation will be sent out separately.

Please call me if you have any questions regarding the proposed meeting.

Regards

Kimball Koch
